10.00am - 11.30am

Alcoa Australia Rolled Products operates Australia's only aluminium rolling mills at Yennora in Western Sydney and at Point Henry in Victoria, and Australia's largest aluminium recycling facility at Yennora.

The business produces over 180,000 tonnes of rolled product each year of which over 50 per cent is exported, mainly to the growing Asian markets. You will see our products in aluminium food and beverage cans and bottle screw caps.

The rolling and recycling operations involve many stages, and Alcoa needs the support of a workforce of approximately 220 people at its Yennora site to see the process through.

The Alcoa Yennora recycling facility is the largest of its kind in Australia and recycles approximately 70,000 tonnes of scrap aluminium each year, including over half a billion cans.

Aluminium is 100 per cent recyclable a process that uses only 5 per cent of the energy needed to make new metal from scratch providing significant greenhouse benefits and diverting waste from landfill. Aluminium is endlessly recyclable with no loss of quality, and it is estimated that nearly three-quarters of all aluminium ever made since 1886 remains in use today.

Around 70 per cent of aluminium rolled into sheet at Yennora is produced from recycled metal. The Yennora plant uses ingots produced during the recycling process as well as ingots supplied by Alcoa at Point Henry and external suppliers.
