

October Survey Question Results

Question – What is the most important infrastructure issue currently facing Australian logistics and supply chain operators?

- 36% of respondents said that intermodal connectivity was the most important issue for Australian logistics and supply chain operators
- 27% of respondents rated road infrastructure as their No.1 issue
- 17% believed that deepening and streamlining of Australian Ports and Container units should top the list
- 8% listed standard gauging of rail tracks as a priority

There were several comments stating that all infrastructures are inter-related in terms of Australia's overall transport industry. Issues could not be isolated as the interaction needed between them signifies the complexity of the matter. Further results and issues will be reported in MHD magazine in the future.